
Organization checklist

Ask yourself these questions after you have written the whole story:

- How could your first sentence be even more interesting?
- How might your conclusion link back to your introduction?
- A detailed plot has three events (at least) that happen. Were all three events in your plot described equally well?
- Where could you use more thoughtful transition words as you moved from plot event to plot event?
- Should you separate your introduction, plot events, and conclusion with paragraphs?
